NT business is faced with the advent of a new industrial framework that, among other things, will see the following:

- Re-introduction of the unfair dismissal regime for small business.
- Broaden the redundancy test.
- Increase access for unions.
- Permit unions to participate in all industrial agreements.
- Permit the return of prohibited matters into agreements that constrain how you employ/engage, & on what rates.
- Increase the level of union intervention and disputation.
- Increase the level of delay and frustration in business decision making.
- Create a “them and us” mentality between employer and employee.
